

Refrigerant Price Changes March / April 2026

To our valued customers,

We continually monitor and review Refrigerant and Commodity pricing and can advise of the following upcoming refrigerant price increases.

Refrigerants R410A, R407C, and R32 will increase in part from March 2026.

Whilst the March increases impact select refrigerants, it is expected that the April changes will apply to all refrigerants.

These pricing changes will be effective in our system from 2nd March, with the next scheduled increase for Refrigerants will be effective on 6th April 2026.

Quotation validity terms have now been revised. Commodity and Refrigerant products that previously quoted prices may not be able to be honoured.

We continue to encourage the use of alternative low-GWP refrigerants for R404A and R507 applications and systems. Our technical team and branch staff are available to support you with information and product selection to assist with this transition. For further details, please visit <https://gas2go.com.au/products/>.

Thank you for your continued business and support.

Kind regards,

Louie Delinicolis
Category Manager, Parts/Refrigerant